LETTER FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Carol Summerfield

With 2022 in the books, we can look back and say that it was truly a turning point for the History Center. Four years into being a new museum and archive for Lake Forest and Lake Bluff, the staff and board in 2022 created great programs, rewarding partnerships, and extraordinary attendance to our exhibitions. Through our partnerships with Ragdale, Gorton Center, Lake Forest Library, Lake Forest Open Lands and Lake Forest College, the offerings we were able to provide were rich in scholarship, artistry, and personal stories.

Through the generosity of our sponsors, family foundations, and grant organizations like the American Historical Association, we were able to provide all our exhibitions and most programs for free to the public. And with the news coverage of The Art of the Miniature exhibition, we've seen an amazing stream of new visitors to the museum; we are now averaging 100 people a week!

We look forward to an even bigger and better year ahead in 2023. We are glad you have joined us, supported us, and continue to be a part of the History Center family.

Carol

In celebration of the History Center's 50th anniversary, 50 in Focus, showcases stories, photographs, and artifacts from Lake Forest and Lake Bluff over the past 50 years. The exhibit was curated by students from the History 368 Museums and Exhibitions class at Lake Forest College in partnership with the History Center staff.

Building Community Resources

The 1970s saw a rise in cultural institutions in Lake Forest and Lake Bluff. These new organizations were focused on providing community support for the arts, sciences, and general social gatherings.

South Community Center opened in 1972. With an auditorium, meeting room, and banquet room, the space was ideal for community activities and meeting space for school organizations. Besides being a center for arts and culture, South added programs aimed in the 1980s to help the growing number of households with two working parents.

What people are saying . . . 50 in Focus: Snapshots of life in LFLB from 1972-2022

Quotes from LakeForestLove article 5.9.22

“This completely revolutionized the syllabus for the class,” says Dr. Jessica Ciales, visiting assistant professor of history at Lake Forest College. “Suddenly, we had this professional, full-blown exhibition to create.”

“It was no longer just a learning opportunity for us; it was one for the community as well,” says Junior Alaina Lykins, a team project manager. “We had to commit to deadlines to bring this exhibit to fruition for the History Center.”

“This felt more like a graduate-level course,” reflects Lake Forest College senior Evan McCarthy, a team project manager. “It required maturity, professionalism, discipline and leadership from each of us.” McCarthy admits that was hard. “As students, we’re used to writing long papers. We’ve had to learn how to effectively communicate important information with fewer words. I’ll apply that learning to my professional work.”

“I saw the class transform from student level of knowledge – concern with what they had to do to get a good grade – to an identity as an expert in this history,” Ciales notes. “That is meaningful.”

The Art of the Miniature

The Art of the Miniature explores the craft of miniature making through the lens of Lake Forest resident Narcissa Niblack Thorne, her workshop, and the many artisans and craftsmen who brought her visions to life. With rarely exhibited original Thorne miniatures and with contemporary masterpieces from The Kupjack Studios, museum visitors explore how miniatures are made and learn more about their historical context.

AFRICAN AMERICAN HISTORY

Deeply Rooted & Rising High program series with Ragdale

A Letter from Sam Lewis, Director of Communications and Engagement, The Ragdale Foundation

As part of my duties, I am responsible for programs and events at Ragdale. In early 2022 I became aware of the tremendous African American legacy in Lake Forest. As a history enthusiast, and an African American myself, I wanted to produce a series of events celebrating that relatively unknown history. After finding a couple of relevant photographs online from the History Center,

I decided to reach out to them to see if they could approve my use of their photographs, but also to see if they may be able to assist me in other ways with my project. I contacted the History Center and received a warm response from the History Center's executive director, Carol Summerfield, and her team. Not only that, I learned that they were planning a project celebrating this tremendous legacy. We quickly decided that we should partner in this effort and share resources. This partnership became the Deeply Rooted and Rising High program series.

I began meeting with Carol to plan the events we wanted to do. I found Carol to be engaging and committed to the mission of the History Center. She successfully gained critical financial support for the project, was present to assist me with my programming, and in Chicago at an event we held at The Chicago History Museum. I would not have been able to have as successful a program by myself.

CENTENNIAL AWARDS

Centennial Family Awards

JUNE 2, 2022 HONORING THE LAWSON-JORDAN FAMILY

Members of the Lawson-Jordan family have called Lake Forest home since at least the 1890s. Early local ancestors included the entrepreneurial America Bridgeman Sales and her husband Walker Sales, Lake Forest's second police officer, along with the Slaughter siblings, six of whom established homes here after migrating from their birthplace of Liberty, Missouri. Many family members built homes in the neighborhood at Spruce and Edgewood, establishing a close-knit Black community there which featured extensively in the society pages of the Chicago Defender.

Deputy Director and Curator Laurie Stein presented a program with historic photos and anecdotes shared by the family, including stories of their connections with local schools, businesses and churches, as well as familial traditions and achievements. Several members of the family were onsite for the lovely celebration in the History Center's Hunter Family Education Hall.

SPECIAL 50TH ANNIV EVENT

50th Anniversary Bday Bash

The History Center honored Art Miller, local historian and emeritus archivist and librarian for Lake Forest College, at our 50th BDAY BASH for his many contributions to promoting and preserving the history of our community.

Three generations of Millers were there to see Art receive his award, along with over 150 people who came to party like it was 1972! Guests enjoyed drinks and appetizers, and a paddle raise and silent auction helped raise funds for our Garden & Endowment Initiative.

PUBLICITY

Social Media, Editorial and Television Coverage

Monthly social media themes highlighted our exhibits and celebrated the year 1972. Our 50th anniversary celebration received significant editorial coverage and the Art of the Miniature exhibit drew new television audiences from features on Fox 32 Morning News and WGN's Around Town with Ana Beneval. This unprecedented publicity helped bring hundreds of new visitors to the museum in 2022.

The majority of the Art of the Miniature posts, particularly the popular mini video tours, were produced by Lake Forest College student Nomin Altansukh

EDUCATION

Education continues to be a driving force behind our mission

With the onset of new opportunities in programming and exhibits, the History Center has created partnerships and educational memories for visitors and learners of all ages.

As the History Center's closest neighbor, Lake Forest College remains a strong partner in programming, exhibit, and initiative development and presentation. Multiple professors from the departments of History, African American Studies, English, and Environmental Studies have contributed to program design, presentation, and discussion over the course of 2022. Special thanks to Jessica Ciales, Courtney Joseph, and Brian McCammack for hosting a few of our highly successful programs and exhibit research in 2022!

The History Center has also hosted multiple Lake Forest College interns, dedicated to researching information on personal projects as well as exhibit development. As a local history museum, the History Center is grateful for local support and continues to place interactive & impactful learning experiences at the forefront of student engagement.

In June, we welcomed students from Forest Bluff School. The students explored the museum, took part in fun activities, learned about our fifty year history, and toured local Triangle Park and the origins of Lake Forest.

Museum campus receives Historic Preservation Award

We were delighted to be the recipient of a 2022 Historic Preservation Award from the Lake Forest Preservation Foundation!

Read a brief history of this former Church of Christ Scientist here:

In the early 20th century, many followers of Christian Science who lived in LF and LB attended the Church of Christ Scientist in Highland Park until 1932, when the First Church of Christ Scientist of Lake Forest was organized. The group met at the Masonic Temple on East Westminster (actually, the former home of the History Center!) and opened reading rooms at various locations in downtown LF.

The Church of Christ Scientist met at the Masonic Temple until 1949, when they began services at their new building on the corner of Deerpath and Washington.

The land for the new building was purchased in 1941, but construction was delayed due to the war. The church building was designed by Chicago architect Charles Draper Faulkner in a modernized colonial style and features the large steeple that became a landmark in the area.

Faulkner had designed over 30 Christian Science Churches around the country. Local architect Stanley Anderson designed the interior spaces in 1951. In the mid-50s the Church bought the recently-constructed house at 630 Washington to house the Sunday School. The Church of Christ Scientist remained here until the History Center bought the property in 2016. The History Center worked with Witmer and Associates to rehabilitate the building with exhibit galleries, an education hall, and archives, opening to the public in 2018.

GARDEN & ENDOWMENT INITIATIVE

Celebrating history inside and outside.

Launching in 2022 with anticipated groundbreaking in 2023, the History Center will create learning gardens on our campus. These spectacular new additions to the museum space will provide gardens that reflect on the history of local landscape design from traditional to modern eras.

The Lake Forest-Lake Bluff contribution to landscape design and preservation is an important story for our community to celebrate and share with the broader world. The work of contributors from the designers to the home owners, the garden clubs, and the workers who built and maintained these beauties should not be relegated to books and photos.
